

Inglewood & Ramsay City Project Updates

February 27, 2024

See below for information we've collected on City projects in Inglewood and Ramsay.

Goodbye Lilydale!

If you've been travelling through Ramsay recently, you might have noticed the Lilydale plant demolition has progressed, a lot!

As part of Green Line's Enabling Works, demolition of the infamous Lilydale plant kicked off in November, with a community celebration as a farewell to the old plant and hello to community revitalization. Thank you for letting us celebrate this moment with you!

Since then, structural demolition has now completed on the property, and was followed by material removal, with final clean up and site preparation expected to be finished soon. Our contractor Priestly Demolition Inc. has been on site coordinating the demolition process.

But what will this site be for?

Demolishing the Lilydale plant is paving the way for main Green Line construction expected to begin later this year. This land will be used partially for the future LRT alignment and also for construction staging. Once the Green Line is complete, remaining land that has not been used for the alignment will be used for another purpose. However, exactly what that purpose will be has not yet been determined.

The Green Line LRT Project recognizes that residents are eager to see what comes next and we look forward to keeping you updated on all our progress.
