

Inglewood & Ramsay City Project Updates

December 19, 2023

See below for information we've collected on City projects in Inglewood and Ramsay.

Demolition of Lilydale factory in progress to make way for Green Line LRT

Demolition of the Lilydale poultry factory has begun, which marks an exciting new phase for both Green Line and the community of Ramsay. This is the first major piece of construction work in Ramsay to prepare for the Green Line LRT, making the project real and tangible for residents.

Green Line hosted a community event on November 8 for residents to watch the first wall get torn down and celebrate with coffee and cupcakes. A crowd gathered to bid farewell to the controversial poultry processing plant and share their excitement for the changes to come in their community.

It's expected that the majority of the main structure will be pulled down by the end of December. Work on the site will still continue through January as the basement and foundation is removed, and all the materials are broken down, sorted, and removed from the site.

Once the building is demolished and the site is cleared, it will be prepped to be used during construction of the Green Line LRT. A start date for construction of the stations and tracks has not yet been finalized, but the construction schedule is expected to be released in 2024.

What the future holds for the site of the former Lilydale factory after Green Line construction is completed is still unknown, but opportunities are expected to include a mix of commercial and residential buildings.
